Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☐ Responsive to communication(s) filed on ____.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-5, 7-17 and 19-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brais et al. (5,995,936) in view of Lai et al. (6,006,183).

As to claim 1, Brais teaches a method for printing a transcribed text, comprising the steps of:

Capturing audio data;

Interpreting the captured audio data whether it's a dictation or a command;

Dictating and transcribing the audio data according to the result, until a command is received where when a command is received its function is executed (Fig.6). Brais teaches where a "report is generated in one of several formats in the form of a printed document" however, doesn't explicitly teach where a specific printing command is detected in the audio data (verbal utterance). Lai et al, however teaches where a user while dictating issues a "print this document" command to print the transcribed data (Col.1, lines 60-67). Therefore one skilled in the art would appreciate the advantage of including the "print command", in Brais' art, in view of Lai teaching, for the purpose of allowing the user to print the document.

As to claim 2, Brais teaches where an utterance data is digitized (Fig.6)

As to claim 3, Brais teaches where the utterance are identified inherently by comparing with a vocabulary of commands and text and Lai teaches where commands include to print a document.

As to claims 4-5 and 7-9, buffering the dictation file and where speech recognition is used to generate text as well as a printing media (not shown) (abstract; Fig.4).

Claims 10-17 and 19-20 are analogous to the method claims that are addressed above and are rejected by Brais in view of Lai for the foregoing reasons

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6 and 18 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: claims 6 and 18 are allowable, because, Brais doesn't teach combining the text with a form template and translating them into a rendered document.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Gould et al. (6,839,669).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-20 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
